

Late ESOS compliance and facing fines? Envantage can assist you today.

Are you one of the 3000+ organisations who have not yet complied with ESOS (the Energy Savings Opportunity Scheme)? ESOS is a mandatory scheme for large organisations in the UK, and includes audits of the energy you use in buildings, industrial processes and transport to identify savings.

After 29 January 2016 you could face substantial fines if you qualify for ESOS but have not acted. Fines will increase for each day of non-compliance.

We recommend that you take steps now to minimise fines

Whether you have recently found out that you qualify for ESOS, or have been unsure of the scheme benefits or requirements, you should act now: start your ESOS assessment and notify the Environment Agency.

Contact Envantage today – we can help you to assess if you qualify, minimise fines, and deliver your ESOS compliance in a way that supports your business.

We deliver ESOS with added value

We believe you should benefit from ESOS, and offer a step-by-step process tailored to you.

Working with us you will:

- Comply fully with each aspect of the ESOS scheme. One of our Environment Agency approved ESOS lead assessors will compile and approve your evidence pack, so you can focus on your business.
- Minimise fines with support from our experienced team and appropriate communications to the Environment Agency.
- Obtain a thorough report on your energy costs and savings opportunities, which will support your future energy management decisions. We deliver a comprehensive audit carried out in accordance with ISO 50002 by one of our Chartered Energy Managers. You can typically expect us to identify energy savings of 10-30%.
- Benefit from our knowledge of the energy sector. You will get our impartial advice on all aspects of energy management and government energy schemes, to help you implement an effective program.

To date we have delivered ESOS compliance for businesses with an annual energy spend from £100,000 to £4million, from large industrial sites to offices and transport fleets.
